SRR Announces Family Scholarship Recipients

AIKEN, S.C. (May 3, 2010) – Savannah River Remediation (SRR) announces the winners its annual Family Scholarships to 10 local graduates, all of whom are sons and daughters of SRR employees.

The Family Scholarship program rewards graduating high school students on the basis of general ability, leadership, scholastic assessment and achievement.

“This is a wonderful opportunity for us to recognize students of our employees who have placed a greater emphasis on leadership and education during their school years,” said Jim French, SRR President and Project Manager. “By recognizing the students, we also are congratulating their parents, who have demonstrated a commitment to their children by fostering what we believe are the correct standards needed in today’s workforce.”

The scholarship recipients are:

- Rajan Amin, North Augusta High School, son of Nilesh Amin
- Devin Broaden, North Augusta High School, son of David Broaden
- Adam Bumpus, Aiken High School, son of Kevin Bumpus
- David Hymel, Alleluia Community School, son of Louis Hymel
- Jennifer Little, Aiken Christian School, daughter of David Little
- Emily Murray, home school/Augusta State University, daughter of Gregory Murray
- Jeffrey Salizzoni, Augusta Preparatory Day School, son of Richard Salizzoni
- Caroline Schilling, Greenbrier High School, daughter of Christopher Schilling
- Patrick Walker, Greenbrier High School, son of Darryl Walker
- Taylor Wapshott, North Augusta High School, daughter of David Wapshott

A scholarship awards ceremony will be held May 25 in Aiken, S.C., to recognize the winning students and their families.

SRR is the Liquid Waste contractor at the Department of Energy’s Savannah River Site. SRR comprises a team of companies led by URS Corp. with partners Bechtel National, CH2M Hill and Babcock & Wilcox.
